Hershey Jr. Bears is pleased to announce that goalie clinics will again be offered through The Goalie Academy with Darren Hersh.

Darren Hersh co-founded The Goalie Academy in 1996 after a successful hockey playing career that included an ECAC Championship and Playoff MVP Award with Bowdoin College in 1993 and a Central Hockey League Championship with Wichita Thunder in 1994.

Hersh is the current Goalie Coach for the Reading Royals, ECHL affiliate of the Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins. With Reading, and with Johnstown Chiefs in 2009, Darren has been fortunate to have been able to work with six (6) minor league goalies with NHL camp experience including Kris Mayotte (Colorado & Washington), John Murray (Columbus), Ben Scrivens (Toronto), Matt Dalton (Boston), Michael Hutchinson (Boston), and Daren Machesney (Washington).

As the Director of The Goalie Academy, Hersh prides himself and his organization on their ability and track record of producing high level goalies from the ground up and from non-traditional hockey areas like Maryland, Virginia, and Central Pennsylvania. Coach Hersh has helped develop from very young ages Dan Sullivan (University of Maine), Jay Williams (Miami of Ohio University), Dan Rivellini (Babson College) and top college prospects Nick Ellis (Pomfret School), Stephen Morrissey (Kent School), and Eric Vierkant (Culver Academy). Some of the best future prep, junior, college, and pro goalie prospects are originating in Maryland, Virginia, and Pennsylvania with The Goalie Academy.

Among Coach Hersh's other high level students have been Kris Mayotte (Union College and AHL), Anthony Feyock (University of Rhode Island and CHL), Pudge Sillery (Union College and FHL), Michael Clemente (Brown University), and Freddie Bergman (University of Nebraska-Omaha). He also works with the DC area's best young and rising goalies, including the top AA and AAA goaltenders.
